October - What Can Compare

Poet: Sterling Brannen

October is a pleasant time;
The foliage is so sublime,
And there's a briskness in the air
What with October can compare?

Though fainter are the solar glints,
Thought fainter, too, the floral tints,
Though month-end finds the trees quite bare,
What with October can compare?

In town and country, forest, field,
Is garnered kindly Nature's yield.
The harvest urges thankful prayer.
